RECEIVED COURTESY BAIL

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—When the Grand Jury, which is investigating the murder of Herman Rosenthal and graft in the police department, resumes its labors today, District Attorney Whitman was ready to present evidence to sustain his contention that a high police official in the department, a prominent lawyer and a hotel keeper are in control of the "graceful" which has extended influence in blackmail from gamblers and other law-breakers.

Detective William J. Buras, who has been investigating police conditions in New York for some time for the district attorney, is reported to have furnished Mr. Whitman with names of the three men charged with being at the head of the graft syndicate. Developments of the utmost importance are expected to result from the action of the Grand Jury beginning today.

This was the mission designed to reveal the identity of the "boss higher up" who for years have been talked about vaguely as beneficiaries of the New York police graft system, but who have eluded capture. It was predicted that seven indictments would be returned, one of those against the late Mayor William J. Gaynor, who was caught in the graft net.

Attaches of the District Attorney's office quoted that evidence has been piling up at a swift rate within the past few days. Among this is information that Becker has maintained a safe deposit box in a downtown vault since his conviction.

Mr. Whitman claimed not to know the contents of the box, but there was every indication that he believed it stored with money and other valuables.

There is a new twist to the graft case, which is a new twist to the graft case, which is a new twist to the graft case.

BURDEN WEDDED
"COMMON" GIRLHOW HISTORY REPEATS
ITSELF, ILLUSTRATED

BY I. F. BURDEN, JR.

(By scanning the annals of the COMMON PEOPLE Mr. Burden gave himself in a class with Queen Glendower, who gave himself himself Prince of Wales in the time of Henry II. Shakespeare makes Glendower say, in Act III, Scene I.)

Count of the crowing, give me leave To tell you once again that at my birth The front of heaven was full of fiery clouds.

The goats ran from the mountains and the herds Were strangely clamorous to the frightened fields.

These signs have marked me as extraordinary; And all the courses of my life do show I AM NOT IN THE BELL OF COMMON MEN.

What Burden Says: There are today many common people with money and good looks in refined residence places and most of them have done so.

I do not mean to reflect on the common people, for they are necessary to the economic development of the world, but I can not help being to have social relations with people who are not fit.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 12.—I. Townsend Burden, Jr., who has just discovered that Newport is no longer fit for fashionable folks because too many "common people" have crowded in there, has not been far from about taking the money of the "common people" for his enjoyment.

Burden, son of a wealthy New York family, clever polo player, used to be the most active citizen in metropolitan society, did not object to the $1,500,000 dowry that came from Dennis Sherry, the father the day's "Flower Sherry" when she became his wife.

Yet Dennis Sherry is a sterling specimen of the "common people." He tramped into the West in the gold rush days of the 60's and dug the earth with pick and shovel and did not supply for a living. He traveled the plains with immigrants and cowboys, and he mixed with them in saloon cars. They called him "the man who wouldn't wear a coat or a suit."

And Sherry is still happy to call himself one of the "common people." He proudly says: "My father was good Irish and was capable of any law to help the mortgage from his farm."

Today Dennis Sherry is a financial power in Denver and worth many millions.

GIBSON'S BODY FOUND. NARRAGANSETT PIER, Aug. 12.—The body of George Gibson, who became better for Mrs. F. A. N. Hopkins of Washington after his graduation in June from Harvard University and who was drowned here yesterday, was recovered today. The remains will be sent to Washington for interment.

WOMAN AFTER CITY JUDGESHIP

The time has come for women to take her place among the cities where women are accorded the same privilege and right as men.

Why should Boston be behind Chicago? Women the world over are being accorded equal rights in the practice and administration of law with the men. The world is awakening—Miss Caroline Leveson, candidate for preceding justice of the city courts.

Miss Caroline Leveson, thirty years out of Boston University Law School, is a candidate for preceding justice of the city courts.

Miss Leveson is a member of the Massachusetts Bar Association and of the Massachusetts Women Lawyers Association, the Paris Club and other organizations.

In the statement in which she announced her candidacy she said:

The time has come when women should take her place among the enlightened cities where women are accorded the same privilege and right as men.

I believe that the time has arrived when a woman lawyer may aspire to the high office of Municipal Court judgeship, which is what I intend to do—apply myself to obtain it. This I realize, means the opening of a new mode of tradition.

Why should Boston be behind Chicago? That women the world over are accorded equal rights to drive in the mysteries of the law as the men do, is proved by the following facts:

Boston the Dutch recently adopted a bill permitting women to go into law, but in Canada women are being admitted to the bar.

In Switzerland a woman, Madam Vulliamy, the first of her sex to be admitted to the bar, was received with acclamation into the profession by both the judges and male attorneys.

TO RETURN HOME

ETHEL SILVERMAN.

WOMAN UNCONSCIOUS
FROM ESCAPING GAS

Miss Belle Cowell, thirty years old, of No. 208 Pearl street, Cambridgeport, was found unconscious in bed today from the effects of gas. A woman in the house found the door unlocked and the gas turned on. The woman was taken to the Cambridge Relief Hospital where it was said she would recover. The police were told the woman had been ill and out of work. Whether or not the woman attempted to take her life could not be learned.

'Come Home! You're
Breaking My Heart,'
Is Plea of Mother

A pathetic appeal to fifteen-year-old Ethel Silverman, the East Boston girl who disappeared July 8, is made by her mother, Mrs. Max Silverman, in a letter to the AMERICAN today. "Oh, Ethel," the mother writes, "my heart is really breaking and unless you come soon, I am afraid you will never see your mother again."

The girl's parents live at No. 65 Webster street, East Boston, and have a summer home in Stoughton. The father, Max Silverman, for weeks has been searching the summer resorts in Maine and New Hampshire, in the hope of finding his child. So far his hunt has been unsuccessful. The mother is now under the care of a physician, grief-stricken and heartbroken.

The mother's letter to her daughter, received from her sick bed, is almost the appeal of a dying woman in her child to come home. The letter follows:

Dear Ethel:

Please come home. My heart is breaking. I do not think I can stand it much longer. If you only knew how we feel over your going away, you would surely let us hear from you. Please come back.

Page twelve so that he has done no work since you left. He has not slept any night. He has been looking for you in Maine and New Hampshire, and I have been trying to find you in the past week. Oh, Ethel, my heart is really breaking, and unless you come soon, I am afraid you will never see your mother again.

If you love your people, write and let us know where you are. Lovingly, Mother and Papa.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—A resolution to appropriate $400,000 for a memorial building to commemorate the services of the loyal women of the United States during the Civil War has been passed by the Senate. The resolution will go to the House.
